

Cookie Policy

This cookie notice is part of our Privacy Policy. For more information on how we use information of our website's visitors please refer to our Privacy Policy.

A cookie can be thought of as a digital identity card which lets us know whenever you return to our website. Thus, we can for example remember your preferences or registration details in the future. Furthermore, cookies allow us to monitor your surfing habits to see what you are interested in and adjust our services accordingly.

We use cookies in order to provide a smooth and easily accessible service to you. Not only do cookies allow us to record important information about you to improve our services, but also to analyze how our services are being utilized.

By using our services and having cookies enabled on your device, you agree to the processing of such cookies.

While our services can, generally speaking, be used without the use of cookies, we do recommend to leave them enabled for the smoothest and most comfortable experience possible.

Please refer to your browser's/device's support section if you need further information on said matter.

If you disable all cookies (including Smaply's authentication and session cookie) we cannot guarantee that we can provide you with a satisfying service.

To see a comprehensive list of all cookies we utilize on please visit our cookie list, which can be found here.

If you still have questions, or if you want to know which information we have processed regarding you, please do not hesitate to contact us at support@smaply.com.
